

HELP THE VICTIMS OF FLOODS IN PAKISTAN

Recent official reports say that there are over 20 million victims. Unusual rainstorms in Pakistan have inundated one-fifth of the country with water. Most survivors are still without any shelter and other basic necessities. Many more are at the risk of developing malnutrition and water-borne diseases. Therefore, they all need our help.

South Asia Centre for Peace (SACP) is a registered non-governmental and not-for-profit organization based in Pakistan. The organization is currently doing relief work in the district of Raheem Yar Khan where 255,189 people have been affected by floods and they need shelter, food and medicine urgently. SACP has been focusing on relief work in this area because it is in the remote area of Punjab and so far a few organizations are helping floods victims there. To make donations send a cheque in the name of “South Asia Centre for Peace” at the following address:
